Cy-Fair Aggies

Send us your Good Bull photos and maybe you'll be featured in an upcoming issue of the Houston Aggie!

GOOD BULL!

In the 1st Quarter 2012 issue, we introduced you to Andy Duffie '78's Aggie Century Tree Project. Ross Volunteer David Eisenlohr '78 of Dallas (center, wearing striped tie) donated one of the 530 seedlings from the original project to Governor Perry, who planted it in the governor's mansion's garden. As Perry left office, he dedicated that sapling:

To Honor the Service of All Aggies: Past, Present, and Future.

Outside the governor's mansion, there is now a little plaque beside an oak tree. "I planted it there a year ago. . . . It is happy! It will be there for a hundred plus years. And it is the progeny of the Century Oak from Texas A&M University." ~Rick Perry

Rick Perry '72

As Rick Perry prepared to leave office after 14 years, he left behind a little bit of Good Bull. Like many Aggies, Rick Perry is proud to wear the Aggie Ring. In fact, he's worn three. His second was lost, and then found, was in his pocket for each inauguration, went into space, was "dunked" in holy water, and has survived fourteen years in the governor's office. On January 13th, Perry's second Aggie Ring joined the collection of gubernatorial memorabilia housed at the mansion, "so that no matter who comes through there, they will know that after 150+ years, there has been an Aggie governor."

C.A.M.P. HOUSTON CARING AGGIES MENTORING PROGRAM

Giving Back the C.A.M.P. Way

In 2005, a dedicated group of Aggie volunteers founded C.A.M.P., the Caring Aggie Mentoring

Project, a group dedicated to mentoring children as they develop through school and inspiring them to pursue higher education by reinforcing excellent academic standards; building confidence and leadership skills; providing fun, life-enriching experiences; and role modeling qualities of success. C.A.M.P. is not intended to tutor students, but rather provides one fun weekend activity each month during the school year, ranging from attending professional sports games, to trips to the zoo or the beach, campus visits to Texas A&M, and the ever popular visit to a working ranch.

Each month, about twenty volunteers host each of C.A.M.P.'s classes. New volunteers are assigned to a third grade class and, if all goes as planned, they'll stay with those students until they graduate. This year C.A.M.P.'s volunteers are mentoring students from third through eleventh grade, and volunteers are working hard to keep the ideas new and fresh. If you are interested in volunteering, please visit www.HoustonAgs.org for more information and upcoming orientations.

C.A.M.P.'s founders felt that the Aggie tradition of community service, offered an opportunity for Houston area Aggies to make some major changes in the lives of a large group of youngsters and their families. "We try to teach them that to give back does not mean you have to have financial means. You can give back in the form of your time and your labor. They did that and their pay back was almost instantaneous," remembers Freddie Wong '69.

C.A.M.P.'s ultimate goal is to become a statewide program, supporting Texas A&M's Vision 2020 Strategic Imperative to achieve student diversity reflecting college-bound Texas high school graduates. With the inaugural class set to graduate next year, all eyes are to the future and the possibilities that were once only a dream.

with Elves & More

For years, the C.A.M.P. 4th Graders have partnered with Elves & More, volunteering every December to change lives – one bike at a time. It's a way that our students can “give back” without financial means. Elves & More provides bicycles to under privileged children, allowing them to get to after school events, tutors, mentors, and jobs. But, alas, for some reason, the children of the C.A.M.P. program weren't eligible for the very bikes they were assembling.

Enter the TAMU Industrial Engineering Class, who adopted Elves & More as its class project, streamlining the assembly process for more speed and efficiency. As a way to thank the Aggies, Elves & More finally agreed to donate bikes to the C.A.M.P. 4th Graders.

Now the only obstacle was how to get the bikes to the kids.

Hello Comflow Mechanical! Comflow stepped in with some muscle, a truck, and more heart than anyone expected, and delivered the bikes to the waiting students, making this new tradition an annual reality. Their only thanks, the smiles on the children's faces when they see their first bike and say to the volunteers: “C.A.M.P. is awesome!”

Howdy from the President!

As we begin a new year, I am fortunate to lead the Houston A&M Club as the 2015 President. The Aggie Network is a welcoming community wherever I find myself, and I have greatly appreciated the friendships that I have built through Club networking opportunities and special events.

Since graduating in 2004, I have had the pleasure of participating in three Aggie Clubs. While earning my MBA at the University of Central Florida, I served two years as President of the Northeast Florida A&M Club in Jacksonville, before joining the Central Florida A&M Club in Orlando for another two years: first as Muster Chair, then as President. When I returned to Texas in 2012, I intended to enjoy my leisure time as a regular member of the HAMC. Instead, I attended the Cypress Happy Hour, where I was quickly invited to help with upcoming events. My first year, I leapt from Crawfish Boil Chair to back-to-back Coach's Nights to President-Elect, helping to grow the current leadership team and develop a jam-packed schedule of events.

As your President, I encourage you to participate in a variety of this year's regular and special events, joining the numerous valued volunteers who make the time to promote the Aggie Spirit here in Houston. Our calendar of events can be found on our website at www.HoustonAgs.org. We are constantly working to provide events that interest all our members, and encourage feedback and new ideas on ways to continue and improve our service to the community.

I would like to thank Clint Smith '78 for his service to the Houston A&M Club. His leadership and support have helped provide guidance for success in our mission. I hope to continue and grow his legacy during my term as President. Along with Amy Blaase '03, our new President-Elect, and our newly elected Officers and Directors, I am enthusiastic about what lies ahead. I encourage everyone to become involved with the HAMC, even if it's just to attend our monthly leadership meetings to share ideas. There are so many opportunities to share and lead. We welcome your active participation.

A&M Hires Tea-sip Dean!

No...It's Not an Aggie Joke...

Have you heard? Texas A&M bought a law school. And this Fall, the first class of students who actually chose to be Aggies became 1Ls. (Graduating as Aggies came as an unexpected surprise to the first two graduating classes who expected to graduate from Texas Wesleyan.) We can't be more proud of these three classes for starting a tradition of excellence in the legal profession: "To develop leaders of character dedicated to serving the greater good."

Located in the heart of Fort Worth, Texas A&M University School of Law accepts 200 students each fall, with a primary focus, not surprisingly, on Intellectual Property Law. This specialty allows A&M to focus on real-world experience from day one, with close ties to the College Station engineering departments. IP Law is one of the fastest growing legal specialties and the Patent Bar Exam requires a technical undergrad; combined with A&M's ties to the energy and oil & gas sectors, especially here in Houston, preparing students to practice copyrights, patents, trademarks, and trade secrets makes sense.

Dean Andrew P. Morriss earned his J.D. from that little school in Austin, but he recognized the unique opportunity heading A&M's law school presented.

"I wasn't smart enough to go to Texas A&M, but I was smart enough to marry an Aggie!"

As A&M's law school grows, they will continue to focus on stronger recruiting, attracting more Aggie caliber faculty, and building a bigger and better facility to hold the awesomeness that will be Aggie Lawyers. In an unprecedented first, the ABA recently granted A&M Law special permission to accept 10% of their incoming class from Texas A&M graduates with a 3.5 or higher GPA and NO LSAT required. You heard that right Aggie lawyers! Do you still have nightmares about the LSAT? What would you have given to avoid that exam? Not that a 3.5 engineering undergrad is a walk in the park....

But the Law School needs support from the thousands of Aggie Lawyers who graduated from other institutions, but still identify closest with the Aggies. Of course, there is no better time to support the school financially. Thanks to a 1 to 1 matching program, a $25,000 gift over 5 years allows an Aggie to endow a $50,000 permanent scholarship that pays approximately $2000 a year. But we can give back in non-financial ways, too, by volunteering to speak at the law school, hiring an Aggie intern, or better yet, hiring an Aggie lawyer.
